1. This communication is in response to applicant's response received on May 5, 2004.

Page 2

2. Applicant's election with traverse of Group V in the reply filed on May 5, 2004 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that there is no serious burden on examiner for searching different groups. This is not found persuasive because the inventions as set forth in each group are distinct e.g. groups I-IV are method claims and group V is an apparatus claim; the steps recited in method claims are not required in an apparatus claim. Furthermore, the search required for each group in method claims is not required for other method claims. e.g. isolating step in group II is not required in other method claims; the detailed steps of groups I-III are not required for group IV etc.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

3. Claims 17,19 are objected to because of the following informalities:

In claim 17, it is unclear as to how a control means controls the switch; the switch is controlled based on what function; what is meant by the phrase "power storage device"; is it power supply device?

In claim 19, there is no antecedent basis for "current time" at line 7.

Appropriate correction is required.

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 17-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Blackburn (6,567,522).

Blackburn discloses a method and apparatus for alternately providing positive and negative direct current voltages to a single twisted pair for cathodic protection (col. 2, line 1+) which includes a switch 102, a control means 101 and a power supply means 104 (Fig. 1). Blackburn does not explicitly disclose that such system is for underground pipe or cable. Blackburn discloses that such system is used for transmission lines. The cathodic protection for the underground cable is known in the art. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use the system of Blackburn for the underground cable to protect the cable from corrosion.

As to claim 18, Blackburn discloses the details of the switch in fig. 2. The use of solid-state switch would be within the level of ordinary skilled in the art.

- 5. Claims 19-20 are allowed.
- 6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Note PTO-892.
